GOING OVER

NARC The arcade action thriller with the BIG finish. Infiltrate the criminal underworld - your mission is to seek out and destroy the king pin of the MR BIG CORPORATION - if you get that far.

You'll have to outwit his enormous army of body guards... gangs of charisma-bypass patients in trench coats, the bullet brain with the build of a rhinoceros and the breath of a dung beetle, packs of vicious canine yuppies, the psychotic clown with an evil sense of humour - you'll die, but not laughing! Then there's the gas guzzling cadillac jock - a cool specimen, elbow hanging on the door rail, a serious looking piece in his hand and ready to blow you away as he rolls down main street leaving you coughing lead. It's not all bad!... You've got a chopper to back you up, a mean, shiny street machine, some heavy metal hardware and some pretty neat moves. And what about the king pin... did I say he was Mr. Big? No, he's MR BIG!

The Arcade Thriller takes you from the bright lights of Paris to the rugged terrain of the Sahara. Your mission is to track down, chase and apprehend the dangerous criminals. It's FASTER - explosive power sends you hurtling through various terrains - hold the line or plough the fields! It's TOUGHER - the criminals wield some heavy hardware - but so do you! You can shoot but you must dodge their flak... heavy gunfire, trucks unloading their cargo onto your bonnet... it's the meanest pursuit game to hit the micro screen.

The extra features will leave you gasping for extended play weather changes, bodyguard squads, grenade lobbing bikers, gun-choppers... just play it!... we dare you to stop!

Tour De Force

● Pedal power from Gremlin!

Here's a game that takes you for the ride of your life! Jump onto your racing bike and head across the continents of the world! Bum in the air, head down, you pedal over a variety of courses, competing against the clock and ten other competitors.

But this cycling extravaganza is not just a simple matter of athletic prowess and saddle soreness — the course is full of obstructions and unsportsmanlike people who want you and your bike up-ended and temporarily out of the race, which isn't very nice.

From the road's surface pop barriers and obtrusive posts; coiled snakes strike; squat sumo wrestlers block the highway(!) and groups of thugs shuffle from roadside to roadside.

Ramps also obstruct the way ahead but can be used to leap over obstacles and whizz you ahead of the competition. But if you have three crashes you're out of the race for good.

Your position is shown on a map below the main, horizontally-scrolling course screen. And your placing is vital, for only by winning a stage of the race can you move on to the next, held in a far distant country. So you must concentrate on speed, avoid the obstacles and abandon the few moral scruples that you have by taking other riders off with some choice jostling.

But bike racing is hot and thirsty work. To finish the race on a bike rather than a stretcher you'll have to take on drinks by directing the bike through the bottles, glasses and casks that stand on the Tarmac. A countdown at the bottom of the screen shows how you're doing for time, and hurry up because now you've drunk all that juice you're bursting for a wee!!

CONTROLS

Slam (well, don't slam, just 'gently put') a joystick into a Kempston or Sinclair interface. Alternatively, use the keys, which are: 1, Q/up, A, Z/down, H, J, K/left (brake), L, right (accelerate), ENTER, SPACE, B, N, M /jump and kick, P/pause, FIRE & UP/kick up, FIRE & DOWN/kick down and FIRE & RIGHT/jump.

● ITEMS TO COLLECT

RUSSIA ■ Vodka and bread
AMERICA ■ Burger and Coke
ISRAEL ■ Sheep's eyes and goats' milk
FRANCE ■ Snails, croissants and wine
JAPAN ■ Rice and Saki

● Is that fat Sumo geezer going to nobble your chances in Tour De Force?

GAME thrills

DARK STAR

It's a spooky classic from Design Design!

★ Galaxy liberation, ahoy! The Evil Lord's tyrannical empire has invaded the Dark Star galaxy and it's up to you to sort him out. To achieve this you have to wipe out all the enemy's military centres on the planets (easy peasy lemon squeezy)...

Cripes! You should see the original inlay instructions for this game — 'highly detailed' is an understatement — they wobble along for about 1,200 words! Yoiks! Listen to this: 'The Liar's battle computer generates a real time display on your screen which shows all the activity in your immediate vicinity.' This means, look at the screen and you'll see what's happening. Useful instruction, eh? So, here are a pair of scissors, time to perform a bit of cutting down (sniiiiiiip!).

Okay, here's what you do. Dark Star is basically a 3D vector graphics blast-'em-up. You're in the Dark Star galaxy which is divided into a 16 by 16 grid of sectors from which you have to forcibly evict the alien forces. You're seated in a zippy space craft called the Liar(?) and, to put it simply, your objective is to fly around the universe shooting anything that moves. If it doesn't move, shoot it anyway. If it's square, fly through it. Erm, there's a little bit more to it than that, though...

The action takes place over three different areas, deepest space, hyperspace (accessed through warp gates — rotating yellow squares) and on the surface of many planets. When all the planets in a sector have been cleared of aliens, using the warp gates takes you into another sector.

In space, alien fighters swoop onto you, firing plasma bolts — they find it easy to lock-on so flying in a straight line for too long is best avoided. You can retaliate by aiming your crosshairs and pressing fire, unleashing a plasma bolt. Shield energy is increased by flying through blue squares (energy concentrations).

Yellow warp gate squares have four opening and shutting sections which allows you to hyperspace north, south, east or west. While you're travelling through hyperspace you have to fly through a series of squares which form a winding tunnel; breaking through it puts a heavy load on your shields.

Landing on a planet is dead easy: as you see one approaching, simply fly straight at it and you'll land automatically. Each planet's surface is packed with enemy-occupied towers which pump laser death in your direction. Shoot directly at the towers to destroy them. Force fields can cause havoc if flown through; however, there are small openings to fly through which won't drain your energy.

Enemy bases are hidden in a ring of defences and are protected by three towers. You can't leave a planet until all bases have been destroyed (you can disable this feature at the beginning of the game). Fuel dumps on the planet's surface consist of energy concentrations and you can increase your energy by guiding the Liar through these. However, look out for the armed towers. Enemy spaceports are defended by both towers and enemy ships and they're tough to destroy, but it's not necessary to destroy these before leaving a planet. To re-enter space fly at maximum speed and maximum height and away you go!

Pressing 1 brings up a map displaying your position. On a planet it shows bases, fuel dumps, space ports and so on; in space, it shows where enemy forces are concentrated and whether they're lightly or heavily defended. The Liar's position and direction is shown by a white arrow. That's about it, but don't be surprised to discover something new when you can master the game!

IN THE DARK?

Then check out the controls! Thankfully, on keyboard they're redefinable (left, right, up, down, accelerate, decelerate, fire) and the game automatically senses if you're using a joystick, but you'll still need the keyboard for acceleration and deceleration. However, Design Design don't recommend playing Dark Star with a joystick. The only keys that can't be redefined are 1 (map call up) and 3 and 4 (press together to quit game). There's loads of information in the presentation screens — have a good check through before playing.

EXCLUSIVE PLAYABLE DEMO! HEROQUEST

Gremlin's magical adventure

★ Prepare to be drawn into a world of monsters, magic and mayhem where only the pluckiest hero can survive the dangerous quest that awaits! It's Gremlin's CRASH Smashed HeroQuest game and here's a special adventure for you to play!

The quest featured in this demo is the first from the game. Called The Maze, it tests your exploration and mapping skills as you guide the four characters (Wizard, Elf, Dwarf and Barbarian) through the rooms to locate the spiral staircase which leads them to freedom. This is a simplified quest — to experience the real excitement of the many monsters, traps, treasures and strategies, you'll have to pop out and buy the game!

The first job is to select sets of spells for the Wizard and the Elf. Once this is done you're into the quest. At the start of a player's turn, a random sequence of numbers flashes in the top left-hand corner. Press fire to stop it and the number displayed corresponds to the amount of moves you're allowed to make during that turn. An arrow cursor now appears — you use this to highlight and select the icons using the up, down, left, right keys.

● Dark Star — it's a great game with heaps of fast action but tends to look a bit crap in a screenshot

ICONS

Directional Arrows Selecting an arrow moves the player one step in that direction, provided there isn't an object in the way or there are no more moves available. Alternatively, selecting a floor tile in the current room that's in line with the player allows one or more steps to be taken.

Key This opens any door you're standing next to.

Map This displays a map of the entire dungeon. By moving the pointer over a symbol a message informs you what it represents. Press fire to return to the game screen.

Next Player Hit this to end your current go.

Eye This lets you search the current room. When selected a menu appears. Select whether to search for hidden doors, traps or treasure. You can't search when there's a monster in the room.

Rucksack When selected your current inventory is displayed. Selecting EXIT returns you to the game. The inventory allows you to highlight items you wish to wear or use. A selected potion takes immediate effect. Quest treasure is found throughout the game. If no weapon is highlighted or you have no weapons then combat is hand-to-hand. Several items of armour can be worn at the same time, but certain combinations, such as plate armour and chain mail, can't. If you're in possession of a toolkit and it's selected then any trap next to the player is removed. The Wizard and Elf can cast spells from the inventory. When a spell is selected the display changes to the map from which you can highlight a player or monster to cast the spell on.

Sword This engages combat mode. The display changes to the map and you choose a monster to attack. There are two options on the bottom of the screen: Weapon allows you to select a weapon (cool) and Cancel exits from the fight sequence without attacking. When a monster has been chosen the display changes to a fight screen where the outcome is shown.

HEROIC CONTROLS

Control your four heroes using either joystick or keys. You can plug a stick into either Kempston or Sinclair interfaces but if you want to stick to keys, put your fingers on: O/up, K/down, Z/left, X/right, SPACE/fire.

BUTCH HARD GUY

Platform fun from Playability By Design!

★ So, you think you're tough? Maybe you've beaten the best in the field. Maybe you're battle-hardened by action with commandos. But if you haven't met Butch Hard Guy, you don't know how tough tough can be! This is the guy that makes 'Nam seem like a Sunday school outing and makes Rambo look like Mary Poppins! This is Butch Hard Guy!! Golly!

The object of the game is to guide Butch through 20 hazardous screens in order to free the war veterans held captive by the evil Dr Tie Fu. Speed, skill and cunning are Butch's weapons and must be used to the full if he's to survive the attack Fu has prepared. His lethal army of droids guard the prison camps and patrol them vigorously.

To defeat the enemy Butch has a range of kicking and jumping moves at his disposal — punching droids in the middle makes them fall over, sit down and switch off for a minute, but then they're back on their feet. To destroy a droid, he has to smash it in the face then get out of the way quick, or Butch is engulfed in the explosion!

The touch of the robots is deadly and colliding with one destroys one of Butch's lives. Butch is an athletic chap and can perform high somersaults that take him whizzing over the droids and onto a nearby platform.

The prisoners are held in cages and to free them Butch has to punch the sides of the cage in. The prisoners automatically make a run for it but should any of the guardian droids catch them as they escape then it's back to their cages! Shame...

IT'S THAT HARD!!

Indeed, it's a toughie, but it helps if you know the controls, which are redefinable on keyboard and the joystick option is open if you have a Kempston or Cursor interface! Butch can walk left or right, perform a small jump straight up, diagonally left or diagonally right. Holding down fire while pushing left or right gets Butch punching and holding down fire while doing any of the jump movements gives Butch a double somersault to get him on the platforms.

● He's butch, he's hard and he's at the bottom right-hand corner of the screen being particularly useless

COUNTDOWN TO THE DEATH

● Corking magi-mix gameplay action!!

★ Brazil seems such a nice place, doesn't it viewers? Home of a swingorilliant carnival, yummy nuts, gorgeous coffee and, erm, that's about it really. Except, it isn't! Because there's a flipping genius out there too and he's called Mario De Paula Leite Gouvea and he's written this spanky game which is packed with lots of other games! Spooky, eh?

It is, indeed, a magi-mix (nay, pot pourri) of games action. In Countdown to the Death you're up against many different mini-games as you fight to hang on to your three lives. Let's have a look at what you're playing...

● HANGMAN

This is the first game, from where all the other games open up. Everyone already knows how to play this. Select a letter by pressing the appropriate key on the keyboard. If it's in the mystery word, the letter appears, if it doesn't then it's the hangman for you. In this, no noose is good news (Oh dear... —Ed).

● BONUS MACHINE

Complete a Hangman game and the bonus fruit machines appear in the right-hand side panel. Press fire to stop each one and hope for the best!

● BAT AND BALL

Break Out, Thro' the Wall, call it what you like. Wibble your bat along the bottom of the screen so the ball always bounces off it and flies up into the screen destroying the multi-coloured blocks. There are three balls at your disposal and you get a bonus for each one left at the end of the game.

● MEMORY

Over on the right-hand side panel two decks of cards appear face down. Turn one from the top deck over and then select one from the bottom deck to find its match. Do that with all the cards and you're a winner!

● REPEAT IT

The right-hand side panel lights up again with four different coloured faces which flash in a random sequence. Use the control keys to choose a face and then fire to activate exactly the same sequence as you've just seen. It's pretty impossible...

There might even be more some more mystery games hidden away in there — it's up to you to find them!

● CONTROLS

Keyboard controls are definable and you can use a joystick as long as it's plugged into a Sin-

WHO THE JIGGINS IS MARIO DE PAULA LEITE GOUVEA??!?!?
(And just how do you pronounce it, for that matter!)

Mario comes from Brazil and is 19 years old. He started computing in 1986 when his grandmother gave him a Brazilian ZX81 clone and then he bought another(!) ZX81 clone and a Brazilian computer, the MC100 (which is a sort of cross between a Apple II and a TRS-80 with a AY3-810 sound chip) and finally in 1987 he bought a 48K Spectrum (hurrah!). His father gave him a Plus D Disk interface and 3.5 inch disk drive. Countdown to the Death began as a Hangman game written in BASIC but as he learnt machine code Countdown to the Death became the magi-mix of game styles it is today! He's currently working on an arcade adventure program, in-between studying electronic engineering at Mackenzie University in San Pauloand, Brazil, using computers that nobody's ever heard of (well, does A/VAX 3600 and a S660AND with a Delstation 3100 mean anything to you?).

POKEMANIA!

There are plenty of tips on tape this month! Find out what Graham 'Turbo' Mason has lined up for you this month in DJ Nicko's Tips beginning on page 31!

DON'T FORGET!
YOUR GAME

POWERTAPE!

(And earn you a bit off dosh!)

Instant fame could be yours if you've written a Speccy game that's up to Powertape standard. Yes, were on the hunt for the best games from the creative talents of CRASH readers. There've been loads of excellent games that have appeared on the tape over the past few months — classics such as Egghead 2, Shuriken, Talking Hedz, Solairs and many, many more! Breaking into the glamorous world ('hem 'hem) of Speccy publishing couldn't be easier! Just send us your game on cassette or disk, with a letter explaining the gameplay, and if it passes the reviewers' testts we'll put it on the Powertape! The address is: NEWS-FIELD, CRASH POWERTAPE DEPT, LUDLOW, SHROPSHIRE SY83 1JW. Don't forget to include the Powertape form — see page 19 of this issue — without one we won't even sniff your entry!

- ★ WIN REALLY TRENDY SNEAKERS!!
- ★ WIN JOLLY SPIFFY GAMES!!!

dude-like sneakers to give away! Cool!

SOMETHING'S A FOOT

Let's have a look around the CRASH office and see what street tough footwear abounds...

Big Ed Richard, what's on your feet? 'Erm, Nike boots! Gerrroovy, huh?' Sure they're Nike? (puts on specs) 'Yes, yes, Nike — look here — N-i-c-k-s. Oh. What? Nicks? Anyone heard of them? They're not very street cred at all? Um. I thought £10.99 for a pair of Nikes was a tad on the bargain side.' Crap, eh?

DJ Nicko, eternal hunk of the month and general all-round 'nice' guy, what's on your feet? 'These!' Oh they are smart ('hem, 'hem), a nice pair of imitation leather, black and shiny Freeman Hardy Willis specials. £7.99 in the sales? A bargain (snigger).

How about Woz? (Have you met Woz? Probably not. Woz, full name Warren Lapworth, is CRASH's helper-outer on the subbing side. Complete long-haired hippy, sci-fi spack head.) On Woz's feet are a particularly unimpressive pair of leather boots, sort of punk-ish with chains and buckles all over the shop. Ten points for bravery, minus several million for being a fashion guru.

And Mark, can you save the CRASH team's cred. 'Well, sort of. Pair of Puma boots.' Not bad, but still not le chic.

CAN WE GET TO THE POINT, PLEASE?

Right, yes (sorry, sorry), trendy sneakers are a must. Kixx have three pairs to give away. Fine. Why? Oh, basically because Kixx games are completely spiffy, being, as they are, rereleases from Britain's top software houses like US Gold, Gremlin, Activision (RIP) and Palace at a barg-like price of £3.99!

And what delights have Kixx lined up in their latest batch of releases? There's Forgotten Worlds (a CRASH Smash from yesteryear), Gary Lineker's Hot Shots, LED Storm (another Smash from the past) and three new bumper packs called Multimixes! There's the Leaderboard Multimix, which features the brilliant series of Leaderboard golf simulations; the Beach Head Multimix featuring Beach Head, Beach Head 2 and Raid Over Moscow; and finally the Capcom Multimix featuring Street Fighter, 1943, and Bionic Commando!! It's brill! It's triff! And you can win one of those games!

In addition to the sneakers on offer there are 23 — 23!! — Kixx games up for grabs too! Which means, erm, there are three first prizes of a pair of sneakers and a new Kixx title and 20 runners-up prizes of a new Kixx game. Sounds fair enough, doesn't it? To be in with a chance of winning there are five questions just waiting to be answered:

- 1 ● In which of the mentioned Multimix game packs would you find an Iron?
- 2 ● Kixx have a game called Bionic Commando, but who was The Six Million Dollar Bionic Man in the TV series?
- 3 ● There's a really famous brand of boots and shoes called DM's, what does DM's stand for?
- 4 ● There are 42 kids in a class, one-sixth of those pupils wear slip-on shoes and a fifth of the remaining amount wear sandals. How many individual laces would be needed to lace up the rest of the kids' shoes? (Tricky, eh?)
- 5 ● There's a Kixx game called LED Storm. What do the initials L.E.D. stand for if you're talking about light bulby-type things?

Write the answers to those quintet of quizzical questions on the back of a postcard (or sealed envelope) along with your name, address, postcode and shoe size to: NEWSFIELD, IF I CAN'T GET MY KIXX ON ROUTE 66 I'LL TRY THE A49 INSTEAD COMPO, CRASH, LUDLOW, SHROPSHIRE SY8 1JW. Make sure your entries reach CRASH Towers by 23 May or the only kixx you'll be getting is on your backside.

ANOTHER COMPO!!

On the phone line at this very moment is another chance to win the Atari Lynx console from US Gold offered in Issue 86 — we had a few problems with the calls then so we've kept the compo open. Also up for grabs on the phone are copies of US Gold's fab game Chip's Challenge. The phone lines are open now and you can hear all the details simply by phoning:

0898 555 084

Calls cost 33p per minute during off-peak time and 44p per minute at all other times. If you don't pay the phone bill ask the person who does! CRASH Hotlines are brought to you by CRASH Ltd and Chatterbox Ltd.

★ Hey you! Are you 'street tough'? Are you acquainted with a particular 'posse'? Maybe you have cheekbones from hell and call yourself Almond Sorbet? Do you cook MCs like a pound of bacon? Or do you prefer to grill them lightly under a gentle flame?

Whatever the case there's only one way to measure somebody's street cred and that's to look at their feet. Ugh! Yeeeeeech! Well, no (let's try it again with socks and shoes on, shall we?). Are you sporting a pair of Nike 180s or Reeboks? Would you like some? Yes?! Thought as much. So, it's just as well you're reading this brilliant compo from budget software house Kixx, who have three pairs of completely

The SAM Page

All aboard for our monthly trip down the SAM Coupé road. NICK ROBERTS is the driver so you might want to grab a crash helmet first!

SAM REVELATIONS

■ Shock! Horror! A new software house set up solely for SAM Coupé products! Yes, it's true. Revelation is a subsidiary of SAM Computers and has been set up to help supplement the software coming from Enigma Variations.

The first products planned for release include Quiz Ball, a cross between Trivial Pursuit and Radio 1's Give Us A Break (£9.95, disk only), educational software like Highway Code and Spelling, and possible conversions of the Fun School games. These are planned for the end of March. There's also talk of converting Digital Integration's F-16, using the Atari ST graphics and Spectrum code.

■ SAM Co have also been talking with software companies in Spain with hope of converting some of their older products to SAM format. Companies like Palace, Ocean, Mastertronic and Domark were on the visiting list so we can hopefully look forward to some impressive games using the original gameplay with SAM's 128-colour graphics and stereo sound!

■ Of course, it's not just the big companies that have the potential to produce good software. Some of the PD software about it of a very high standard. This has not gone unnoticed at SAM HQ and they're interested in using the talents that have been displayed through PD to create new games. If you consider yourself a bit of a whiz at graphics, sound, machine code or even game designing, get in touch with SAM Co.

■ On the hardware side of things, SAM Co have a lightpen in the pipeline. The main reason for producing it is for use in conjunction with educational software. Young children would find it much easier to point to the screen with a pen rather than have to use a joystick or keys. The lightpen obviously would come in useful for art utilities, too.

The SAM Messenger should be making an appearance around the end of March, priced £29.95. This is a Spectrum-to-SAM interface using the same technology as the MGT +D and Disciple disk drives. It allows programs to be loaded on the Spectrum and transferred onto the SAM with ease. Using this method of loading up games you do not encounter any of the compatibility problems. The Messenger also comes in useful for incorporating the SAM into Spectrum network systems.

SERIOUSLY...

For the serious SAM users, Lerm Software have a couple of new products to show off. SAMDISK is a disk utility that any SAM Drive owner shouldn't be without. It includes all the usual disk options such as ERASE and DIR plus new ones which are exclusive to this disk. You can unerase files which you accidentally deleted, repair faults on a disk — retrieving data you thought you'd lost — and copy files from one disk to another. SAMDISK is available in two versions. The standard version is £10.99, and there's a special edition for fast disk duplication available for £19.99 which needs two disk drives.

SAM Toolkit includes SAM Assembler 3 and is the latest in the machine code assembler line from Lerm. The source code editor is simple to use after a good read of the manual and you can soon be producing your own machine code programs. The package includes a guide to writing SAM machine code, a reverse assembler and a single-step program. I managed to write some small machine code programs using this package, so if I can do it almost anyone can! All I need now is a good machine code book to teach me all the ins and outs.

SAM Toolkit is not for the complete beginner — you do need a basic knowledge of machine code. It costs £14.50 and both the Toolkit and the SAMDISK are available from: LERM SOFTWARE, 11 Beaconsfield Close, Whitley Bay, Tyne and Wear, NE25 9UW

HAVE A TERMINATOR TO TEA!

More digitised demo action from G Middleton. This time he's plugged his Coupé into the Terminator and come up with a two-disk set of animation sequences to boggle your mind. There are seven digitised scenes from the film, including the best ones where Arnie rips out his eye and opens up his arm with a scalpel (don't try this at home kids!).

Each scene is made up of a total of 64 screens, making the animation smooth and a real joy to watch. Unfortunately it doesn't last long. All seven scenes added together make about one minute of animation and the long gaps between scenes are slightly tiresome.

The Terminator animation demo is an essential purchase for any SAM owner. You can get your copy for £5 (both disks) from: G Middleton, 35 Victoria Mount, Horsforth, Leeds LS18 4PU

More SAM Coupé next issue — keep sending in your stuff to: Newsfield, Nick Roberts, SAM PAGE, CRASH, Ludlow, Shropshire SY8 1JW.

SUPPORT YOUR SPECCY

Dear Lloyd
I'm writing to you to express my concerns over the Speccy Is Dead controversy. Although many Speccy owners (and others) have said that Spectrum is dead, my opinion is that it won't die for ages. Look at the amount of Speccys in Britain — hundreds of thousands, even a million of them here. Many owners can't be bothered to get a new computer, mainly because the Speccy has so much hardware and software support. People like Datel wouldn't bother marketing these products if there was no demand. And, because of the vast ownership of the Spectrum, it is not likely to fade out for years yet.

I personally think it will last until 1993/4 which, although many people will argue, is also the life expectancy of the Commodore 64. It may have further to go than the Speccy, who knows? And there are still far too many people owning the Speccy for software houses and the like to ignore. The Spectrum still has a vast share in the home computer industry and support will go on for as long as there is demand. If you Speccy owners are still worried then buy more Speccy games to convince the software houses that the Spectrum still has a future.
Steve Warner, Codsall, South Staffs

Good stuff, Steve. It'll be interesting to see if your views are the same as the industry's — look out for a huge survey from Britain's top software houses to discover exactly what they think of the Speccy. Where do they think it's going? How much longer are they going to continue supporting it? And will Enor be around for much longer? Those questions and more will be answered in the next issue by which time you should have a £40 software voucher for being Letter of the Month!
LM

TWO CD OR NOT?

Dear Lloyd
Regarding the Code Masters CD, I wondered if there are any more

Before I have a good rummage through your missives this month, first a message of thanks to everyone who has written in (yes, both of you) with helpful 'How to care for a mouse' hints. However, John Reynolds of Blackpool's tips read as follows: You can spot a mouse because it has a tail and eats cheese. Brilliant, John. Strangely enough, Enor (the office rodent) not only likes cheese but also indulges in left over ham sarnies, biscuit crumbs, back issues of CRASH and live electrical cables. Anyway, the little furry fellow (or fellowess, how do you sex a mouse?) is still very much alive and well... but for how long? His life is on a counter thanks (!) to Andy Longbottom from Hastings, who sent in a rather vicious mousetrap (not a nice thing to find at the bottom of the mail sack). More on Enor next month. Onwards, onwards. Your letters are a right old mixed bag this month with praise, criticism and a few questions. If you fancy winning the monthly prize of a £40 software voucher, get your views to: NEWSFIELD, LLOYD'S FORUM, CRASH, LUDLOW, SHROPSHIRE SY8 1JW.

coming out, as I bought the first CD Games Pack and thought it was such a good buy. There was talk that there were more to come. Please let me know as I would like to purchase more. SW Weir, Stockport, Cheshire

Being as clear as mud as usual, Code Masters' Mike Clarke said: 'It's a definite maybe. Last time dealer confidence wasn't high because a CD pack from another company didn't perform well. However, we have all the technology but there are no plans at the moment — but who knows...' Revealing, huh? LM

DISK DILEMMA

Dear Lloyd
I have recently purchased a Spectrum 128K. Now I'm considering attaching a disk drive to the back of it, but I'm unsure what types are compatible. Also, what are Multifaces and what are they used for? I am so confused, can you please help?
Gordon Crickshank, Nairn, Scotland

Datel are currently producing the well known Plus D disk drive which is compatible with 128K Speccys. It costs £129.99 and comes with an interface and all the instructions you need. The Plus D uses 3.5 inch disks (like the ST or Amiga) which are not the same disks as the +3 Spectrum uses so don't expect to be able to buy games on 3.5 inch disks. Romantic Robot's Multifaces are useful hardware utilities which have the ability to freeze any program at any time and allow you to back it up, transfer between disk to tape or tape to disk, PEEK, POKE, study and modify. If you want to know more call RR on (081) 200 8870. Remember that you must not infringe any copyright laws when using the Multiface. LM

MONO SPECCY?

Dear Lloyd
I'm thinking of purchasing a 128K Spectrum computer but I don't know if you can plug it into a black and white television and still play the top games available for it. I haven't had a computer for 14 years and my friend owns one. I started reading CRASH, which is brilliant, and tested the games on my friend's 128K computer. Another mate of mine has a Commodore 64 and has tried plugging it into a black and white TV and it worked. Would this suit a 128K Spectrum or do I need a colour TV or monitor?
Robert Pearce, Blakenell, West Midlands

No worries, Robert! You can plug any Speccy into a black and white TV; the only problem you may encounter is that some games' graphics may be difficult to see (like if there are magenta graphics on a black background)! LM

LOUDER!

Dear Lloyd
I wish to praise Code Masters. If 1991 is as successful for them as 1990, '89, and '88 were they'll be more than the greatest software house. I hope to see more of that crazy game show host, Reggie Loud (star of Wacky Darts).

However, I've not been impressed with £9.99 software. NARC is probably the best of 1990. Nobody ever gives Kixx any credit and they produce excellent games like Monty on the Run and Jack the Nipper 2.

What I'd really like to say is that the Spectrum is not dead when there's a magazine like CRASH to emphasise that there are loving owners. Good luck to all at CRASH and all at Code Masters and have a fab time in 1991!

Danny Fox, Sheffield

Good news, Danny! Reggie Loud, a firm fave here at CRASH and down at Code Masters, has been signed up for more starring roles. There's definitely a Reggie Loud quiz game on the way and Code Masters were tinkering with the idea of a Reggie Loud chat show game but then decided not to bother because it'd probably end up a bit crap. LM

COMPILATION CRISIS!

Dear Lloyd
After building up my Spectrum games collection with compilation sets and some budget games I've been told by a sales assistant in a computer shop... 'Oh yeah, they're not the same as the original games.' Is this so? If so, why? Have I been silly in thinking differently? Or have I been trying to spread my hard-earned dosh under false pretences. The point that I'm trying to make is this: if compilation pack games are shortened or less than the original, shouldn't it be made obvious to the purchaser? I hope I haven't gained a collection of games which aren't what I expected. Please shed some light.
Phil Wain, Northampton

Next time you meet that shop assistant you can give him a good clip round the ear and say (in a very loud voice) 'You really are a clot! You really don't know what you're wibbling about, do you?!' because he (or she) is completely and utterly wrong! Games that appear on compilation are exactly the same programs as if you bought the games when they were originally released. So stop panicking!

ST?!? PIH!

Dear Lloyd
I am only 13 and have purchased an Atari ST, putting my Speccy temporarily out of business. Admittedly the ST's graphics and sound are good but at £25 a game that's just too much. I saved for ages to buy one game and when I got it it wasn't brilliant. I have decided to sell my Atari and my 48K Spectrum and buy a 128K Speccy so that can I buy some of the more affordable and brilliant 128K games.
Simon Almond, Winsley, Wilts
PS Does Nick really hate Mark?

Good for you. Who needs 16-bit power if most of the games are of an inferior quality compared to the Speccy's smash hits? And no, Nick doesn't really hate Mark. I do.

LM

AM I THICK, OR WOT?

Dear Lloyd
I've been reading your fab magazine for a year now and I think it's great. However, there are a few things that are in it quite a lot and I don't know what they mean. One of the things is what sprites are. From the way they have been used I can make out that they are some kind of graphic on screen, but I'm not sure what. I also don't know what sound FX is. Is it short for sound effects or is it something totally different?

I have just read Issue 86 and I have seen all the letters about 128K-only games. I don't know what a multi-load is, but if it is a game where you if have a 48K computer it will load a 48K version in and if you have a 128K it loads that version in, I don't see what's so bad about that.

Also in Issue 86 there was a letter about you being able to program on the Speccy but not a games machine. I have three friends who have Spectrums and none of them know how to start programming, while my brother's friends who have owned Spectrums know how to program simple programs. I have tried programming in BASIC and I am quite good at it but find it too slow and so I am trying to learn machine code. However, I can't find any books that tell me how to do it, whereas when my brother learnt to program in machine code, about five or six years ago, there were piles of books about.

Dave Garratt, Alsager, Stoke-on-Trent

Okay, let's tackle this lot: A sprite is a graphic (so full marks, Dave) which is moved around the screen, like the Arnie sprite in Total Recall, or his gun's bullets. What next? Yeah, sound FX are sound effects, it's just the way we've always written it (SFX are special effects). A multi-load game is where the main game code is loaded in first with maybe the first few levels and when they've been played through more code is loaded in for further levels. Finally, books. There haven't been any Speccy programming books published for a while so your best bet is to pop off down your local library and see what they have available. Alternatively ask your local computer shop if they can order any material from their

MONSTER PORTIONS OF TEACHING

● Scetlander, the education software company, has added to it's range of Speccy learning aids with a new package for the young to develop pre-reading skills. The pack's called Mix and Match with Maggie and stars Maggie the Loch Ness monster as the host. She helps the very young, or anyone with learning difficulties, recognise, discriminate and remember pictures, shapes, letters and numbers. There are three major games to play, each with an adjustable difficulty level: Two of a Kind, Odd One Out and Forget-me-not. The package, which comes complete with game, excellent manuals, and a Maggie badge, retails for £11.99 on cassette and £14.99 on +3 disk. ★ Welcome to Hollywood! What's your dream? Everyone who comes to Hollywood has a dream! And some dream more than others. Take, if you will, Seymour, a new Speccy hero from Code Masters, the star of a new arcade adventure set in Hollywood. Failed movie star RICHARD EDDY checks it out...

● Code Masters have a new Speccy star waiting in the wings, called Seymour. He's been created by our chums at Big Red Software — is he going to be tough competition for Dizzy? What do Big Red have so say about Seymour and the game? 'Seymour's a cheerful, squelchy blob who wanders around in front of an urban sprite-based landscape, a bit like Dizzy (only with fewer trees).' Hummmm, a bit of closer examination is called for, doncha think?

For his first adventure, Seymour has snatched a starring role in a new Hollywood movie and turns up for his first day at work. But calamity strikes as the studio boss, Dirk E Findlemeyer the second, decides to get away from it all and bombs off to Miami for a vacation. Great timing, eh?

Even worse calamity, the scripts for Seymour's film are locked away in Dirk's safe and he's taken the keys with him to Miami, the clot! Luckily, Seymour is not only a cheerful, squelchy blob but a helpful, squelchy blob, and decides to save the day (with your help, of course).

However, if Seymour wants to open the safe he's going to have to find the key, and to find the key he has to discover something else... Yup, it's a mammoth arcade adventure game as Seymour attempts to solve oodles of puzzles which leads him into a web of intrigue, murder and suspense (just like the movies). Okay, enough of the 'explaining what it's all about' bit and onto the 'having a look at the game' bit...

CHATTY CHAPPY!

- Here's the parking lot, where the game begins. Toothy little fellow, our Seymour, isn't he?

parking lot waiting for me to take control of him. Yikes! Wassat? He spoke to me! Well, he didn't actually 'speak' but he moved his mouth in a sort of 'hello' fashion. What is going on? It turns out that Seymour is a bit impatient, he always wants to get on and do things. If you leave him too long he starts twiddling his fingers or mouthing words at you. I better get him moving before he starts saying something obscene.

Seymour has a funny walk: it's a fast paced one, with a bounce in his step and he flings his huge hands around like a demented budgie.

I'm taking Seymour over to the left now, the screen doesn't scroll, but flips into the next location. And here are some conveniently placed objects — there's a bag, a red key and a green scroll. Pressing ENTER as Seymour stands over an object makes him pick it up and he tells you, with the aid of a speech bubble, what it is and holds onto it. (He can hold up to three objects, displayed in the inventory window at the top of the screen.)

So, what have you just picked up, Seymour? 'Gosh, I've got a thingy, a widget and a boojum!' Identifying objects isn't Seymour's strong point. Solving puzzles is, though, so let's go into the studios and check 'em out...

STUDIO LINES

The main studio has eight smaller studios leading from it and a different film is being made in each. They're themed studios with movies in production like a Wizard of Oz-type thing, a sci-fi film, a horror flick, a Grease-type musical, a murder movie, a King Kong monster movie, a western and a cop set. It's a groovy idea because there's plenty to explore (well over 50 rooms) and a huge variety of graphics.

There's a major puzzle to solve in each studio and some studios can't be entered until a puzzle is solved in another. You want to know the sort of puzzle? Okay... We're in the horror studio and the main task here is to collect items to build something resembling Frankenstein's monster. Of course, finding all the pieces is a puzzle in itself. However, there's no brain around — it must be somewhere else. But, put him together anyway and see what happens. Well, he just lurched forwards and smashed through a wall! But wait, that's useful because he's smashed through into another studio I couldn't get Seymour into earlier. That's the sort of thing, so it's looking pretty groovy!

It's going to be pretty fab this Seymour Goes to Hollywood game. 'It's absolutely brilliant' says Code Masters' Mike Clarke, who's just popped in to CRASH for a cuppa. And the best news, it's going to be at Codies usual barg-price of £2.99! Way-hey!

- It's Seymour and he's perched perilously at the top of the horror film set!

PREVIEWS

● Fancy seeing into the future? You could: a, invent a time machine, b, visit Madam Starlight and her crystal ball of conundrums, or c, read this page — it's the previews!

- Blam! That's another evil minion disposed of, leaving the way clear to collect the scroll at the top of the screen

MYSTICAL

★ What's French, deals with magic and has a lot of animation? It is, of course, Claude the performing escargot (snail). And very nice with garlic sauce he is too. However, let's not dwell on cuisine from the land of the sporting cock but instead have a sneaky peak at top French software house Infogrames's latest Speccy offering. It's called Mystical and here's RICHARD EDDY to tell you all about it (which is a far better idea than munching snails)...

● Mystical. Says it all really. Well, obviously not everything because it only says 'Mystical'. But before you've got time to read any more you'll be thinking 'Ah, I bet it's something to do with magic and I wouldn't be at all surprised to discover that something's gone wrong with the magic and I've got to sort it out.' Which is, basically, true.

I hate it when game titles give the whole thing away. Pih! Navy SEALS was great. Lots of 'jokes' about marine flesh-eating mammals with flippers balancing on balls while singing sea shanties and then explaining that it's actually about a crack commando squad... Erm. Mystical's about magic that's gone wrong and you've got to sort it out. See? Told you. Okay, let's buckle down and get on with the storyline. You're a wizard's apprentice studying under the mighty Wizard H... (let his name not be spoken or we'll turn to jelly) only not a very good one. The word 'incompetent' is written across your face — and most of your exam papers, for that matter. One of your final exams dealt with Dimensional Doors which, as usual, you cocked up and caused the destruction of the Great Wizard H... (let the most ancient gods bless him thrice) laboratory and the disappearance of all the magical phials and scrolls that he has laboriously accumulated for about three hundred years.

Obviously, the Great Wizard H... (let his sausages be always be perfectly cooked and never squishy in the middle) is none too pleased and demands you venture forth and reclaim all the phials and scrolls. It's not going to be easy because they've been thrown into parallel worlds dominated by unscrupulous gods, jealous of the Wizard's powers. Thankfully, Great Wizard H... (let him never run out of loo paper on half-day closing) has agreed to help you in your quest and allows you to use the magic powers, contained in the phials or written on the scrolls, to defend yourself against the evil gods' armies.

The Great Wizard H... (let him always have enough clothes pegs to pin out his washing) follows your adventure through his Krystal Bowl and gives you the power to travel between the parallel worlds.

TAKE THAT!

Right, so now you know what's happening let's have a look at the game itself. It's very Infogrames-ish: bright, colourful, ornate-looking thing with big clear graphics.

Certainly no eye strain here (though we haven't seen all the worlds).

The playing area (in our shots, the green bit) scrolls vertically as you take the apprentice up the screen. And coming down the screen are heaps and heaps of vicious looking creatures sent by the demonic gods, all trying to hinder your progress. There are troll-type spooks, skeletons, goofy minions, oriental-looking warriors and something I don't know the name of but certainly isn't friendly.

Each character has its own way of attacking (hand-to-hand combat, projectile, scimitar, bludgeon) and you have to determine the best way of dealing with each one because some creatures take more power to destroy than others. In addition to the 24 different magical spells which are collected you're also blessed with a fire stick which reduces opponents to a pile of ashes — it's a funny thing to see (as one of the screenshots show).

Belted through and reaching the end of each world is your objective; it's towards the end that the greater part of the lost spells and phials lie, as does the evil god of that particular world. Having overthrown a level's god, the Great Wizard H... (let him always get the cherries from the fruit salad) Krystal Bowl appears and transports you to the next dimension.

Mystical certainly sounds, and looks, like it's heading for corkerdom, like the rest of Infogrames' recent Spec efforts and, basically, I can't wait to play it. (But I'm going to have to. Pthrrt!.)

■ Mystical from Infogrames is out any time now and costs £10.99 on cassette and £15.99 on disk.

BIG 'N' BRUTAL

● THUNDERJAWS

Sharks. Not very nice, are they? Have this tendency for swimming up from the depths and munching people on illos. Brrrr! And that's only ordinary sharks. There's this other type — metallic, robotic sharks that don't even bother munching people on illos. They just grab beautiful maidens (that's a bit sexist, isn't it?) and transform them into lizard monsters!! Yeeeeek! And where does one encounter such a shark? Why, in Tengen's forthcoming game ThunderJaws, of course!

Yup, ThunderJaws is an underwater action adventure starring cybernetic sharks, mutant mantas, bionic wolves (though, what wolves are doing underwater is anyone's guess) and lizard ladies. It's a one- or two-player game with you as a brave explorer of the ocean depths who stumbles across this infestation of metallic mayhem.

As a scuba diver, swim down through Cybershark patrolled waters to locate a submerged laboratory. In the lab, attack and defeat the evil villains who are capturing said maidens and turning them into lizards (remember to take your kit off, this bit's set inside)! Then escape and swim through dangerous underwater caverns that are still shaking from powerful seaquakes! Finally, venture through deadly underground caves, swarming with bizarre demons, rocking with volcanic activity! Oooh, doesn't it all sound thrilling? Snorkels at the ready for May, folks!

- Take control of either the red or blue diver and give the Cybersharks what for in ThunderJaws

REVIEWS

SPORTS ACTION RUGBY

It is such an odd concept: first you've got this ball. Except it's very spherical — more like a ball stretched horizontally. Then at two teams who chuck the ball up and down a big field, to 'try', then jump in a big and finally get sloshed down. And it's all about to be played on your Speccy (well, from the last two bits, thanks to Audiogenic and new label Sports Action. Sports Action Rugby is a full simulation of the roughest, toughest on a pitch with what's already going like a lot of fast paced. The game's being coded up by Denton Designs (who created month's cover smash, Cricket), so it's bound to be a fun! Features include a league so you and up to eight other can trash each other, or against a computer-controlled. Alternatively, friendly matches are arranged. It's got all the stuff like scrums, and kicking to touch and it's

- You're the player with the solid arrow over his head. The bar by his feet controls the direction and power of a kick

- Rugby — it's just not cricket all displayed in well-defined large graphics — and there's a small scanner which can be called up which provides a complete view of the action.

Passing's done in a sort of automatic way with the ball going to the most appropriate player in the desired direction and kicking is achieved by holding down fire and then releasing it when the directional bar (there's one beneath each player) is highlighted in the right direction. The longer fire is held, the more powerful the kick. Sports Action Rugby is appearing on both the 48K and an enhanced 128K version in the near future.

■ Rugby will be followed by Sports Action American Football, also being coded by Denton Designs, with a summer release pencilled in (very lightly, though).

Disaster has struck! I've gone and caught a right stinker (or should that be stonker?) of a cold. I might as well have not bothered getting a red nose for Comic Relief, natural ones are much more impressive! I just managed to soldier on with the tips, though (in between gulps of Buttercup Syrup), so you won't go without your monthly fix. (What a trooper Nick is. I think I should give him a big wage rise —Ed) (I didn't actually write that, viewers —Ed) Somewhere around these pages you should find (unless film planning have printed it all in white ink on white paper!) a great map of Turrican and tips on the latest games, Night Shift and Tarzan Goes Ape to name but two.

More fun and games with rotting flesh with these Zombi tips from Jonathan O'Connor of West Hampstead, London.

Click on the helicopter door to open it and push the top icon to get in. Get Alexandre to drop the keys, go down to the third floor with Patrick and get the petrol can and gloves from the cupboard. Then use the lift to get down to the office on the second floor. Get the keys and go up to level four in the lift. You'll find three keys there — one per lorry. The first key is for the lorry at the back of the supermarket (come out of the lift and keep going backwards until you're outside then press left and you'll see a truck). Click on the door and get in. You will see a switch in the cab with a line on it. Click on this to turn on the ignition. Then push the right pedal and the message 'door blocked' will appear. Drop the key and choose a new character. Go up to the fourth floor, get the next key and go down to the first floor. When you come out of the lift go left twice, then forwards until you're outside and repeat the above procedure with this truck.

Choose a new character and get the last key and go down to the first floor. Go back once then right twice; you should be outside. Now push right and repeat with the truck. Now with the last character, go to the sports shop and get the rope. Go to MacDonald's and open the window. Use the rope and one character will climb up. Go back onto the balcony, use the rope and another character will climb up. Now all exits are blocked. To replace the fuse first get a fuse from the electrical shop. Give this to the person with the gloves. Get another character to fetch the torch from the box in the general store. Take these two people down to the basement. All windows must remain closed or zombies will get in. Use the map to reach the fuse box with the two people. Only move them into the place where the torch is. At the fuse box use the gloves and put the fuse in the box. Now go to level four, push the button on the computer and the lights will come on.

Now all you have to do is collect all the corpses and drop them into the freezer in the basement. After this a new type of enemy will appear — men with rings on their fingers. These are Hell's Angels. Get the person with the petrol can to go out through the rear exit and turn right. You should see their van. Click on the petrol cap to open it. Now go back to the garden shop, get the hose pipe and go to the van. Click on activate with the hose showing and the message 'petrol can filled' should appear. Go to the chopper and use the can to fill the tank. Now just kill all the Hell's Angels, dispose of their bodies and get the characters to the chopper. Use the character to fly the chopper. You will fly above the zombies and have won.

THE SPY WHO LOVED ME

Ahh, it's nice to be loved isn't it, even if it's only by a spy! Jonathan O'Connor (of Zombi tips fame) has sent in these bits of info on how to get on in the game.

- On level one learn how to control the car. Don't go fast, especially around corners. Collect as many tokens as possible.
- Don't go too fast in the motor boat, either. Ignore the boats which don't fire much but dodge the bullets from the rest. To destroy them line yourself up in front of them and fire. Keep to the right of the pier or you'll get trapped.
- In the second car scene keep your speed down again. When you drive into Q's lorry the first time don't buy anything if you don't have enough tokens. Pick up 150 tokens and buy something next time around.
- In the submarine stage just keep

STREET GANG

I've already printed some pokes for this budget game but for those of you who would rather have a few hints than blatantly cheat here are some tips from Barrie Biscoe of Epping.

To complete Street Gang just jump all through the eight screens. All the

This code-cracking cover tape from way back in October 1990 has been very popular with the tipsters. Here's what Carole of Eastbourne had to say about the game.

1 ■ To find the missing digit of the telephone number go to modes 2 and 3. This will tell you that the number is between two numbers (eg. 00 and 25).
2 ■ When you get through, note down the range of photocopies and the number of Radnage Road.
3 ■ Now go to modes 2 and 3. This will give you another phone number but with a digit missing — find the missing digit!

4 ■ Type in the four-letter code you noted down in step 2. Write down the information you're given. Close the phone link.

5 ■ Ring Telstar. Enter the code and close the phone link. Go to modes 2 and 3, write down the code and phone Telstar. Again work out the missing letter/digit. At the moment, you don't know the serial number so close the phone link.

6 ■ Now phone Supersoft. When you try to figure out the missing letter/digit you'll probably get a few interruptions. Unfortunately, you'll just have to put up with this: Once you've cracked the code, write

Level Five: Bin 1 — Gain life
Bin 2 — Loose weapon
Bin 3 — Gain points
Bin 4 — Loose life

night shift

Wake up all you budding Freds and Fionas out there because I have some help for you on that brilliant new release from US Gold, Night Shift. This game is totally infuriating but great fun at the same time. This should get you through the first ten shifts.

TAKE A SHIFT AT THIS

★ It's recommended that you put the switches, conveyor belts and Jacob's ladders moving in the right direction when you first go up to the top to switch on the Beast itself. Activating it at the top first and then running down hitting switches left, right and centre as you go is risky as it's easy to miss a switch and get left behind by the falling heads/bodies. Work your way up, activate the Beast and then use the umbrella to get back down.

★ The Bunsen Burner is tricky to set to the right temperature at the

LEVEL 1.1

KEY	◇ DIAMONDS	△ SINGLE/DOUBLE SPIKES ETC.	! BARRIER (moves up and down)	⊗ DEATH WHEELS (roll along inside of walkways)
⊕ EXTRA LIFE	○ POWER-UP	~ BATS	✱ LETHAL STARS
⊖ SECRET CAPSULE	⊙ WATER	⊙ POWER-UP-CARRYING ALIENS	⊙ 'DIAMOND CARRYING' ALIENS
⊙ CANNONS	⊙ DEATH	⊙ WALKERS	⊙ MEGA MOTHERSHIPS
⊙ BREAKAWAY BLOCKS	⊙ WALL CANNONS	⊙ DRAGONS	⊙ FALLING ROCKS
⊙ START	⊙ END	⊙ SPRING MONSTERS	⊙ LIGHTNING

start as its initial situation (on or off) is random (it's also particularly difficult to fine-tune as the small screen area doesn't allow you to see the resulting raw materials coming out). If the Burner is initially off, then light it and heat it on full for three or four seconds and then bring it down to power rating three. If the bunsen is already burning (at any heat setting), lower its heat to one and wait for the steam to stop, wait a second or so more and then raise the heat to setting three. If the liquid isn't bubbling then increase the heat until it does and then fine-tune the heat so that you end up with a heat setting of three (the middle setting).

★ Timing is everything if you want to correctly match the bodies and heads. This should be your main priority once you've got the Beast working. Change the Jacob's ladders to ensure the bodies go down before the heads (make the heads take the long route round the Jacob's ladders if need be) and use the conveyor belt switches on the Bonding Unit belt to fine-tune the timing of head/body matching. REMEMBER! THE BODY GOES FIRST! Keep an eye on the Quality Control to confirm that the final dolls are correctly manufactured.

★ The best place to stay to observe the final effect of heads bonding with the bodies is on the ledge just above the right-hand side Bonding Unit conveyor belt. From here you can flick the switch controlling the final head conveyor belt and momentarily keep a head from going up the tube to the final matching process (which allows a body part enough time to get up the tube into the matching receptacle in the middle). To stall a head, flick the switch and then flick it back once the body is about to go up the tube (experiment to get the timings right).

★ The balloon is excellent for getting up to a ledge fast. Collect as many as you can and use them efficiently. The umbrella is good for getting down but not as good as falling down sheer drops (provided you know where they are).

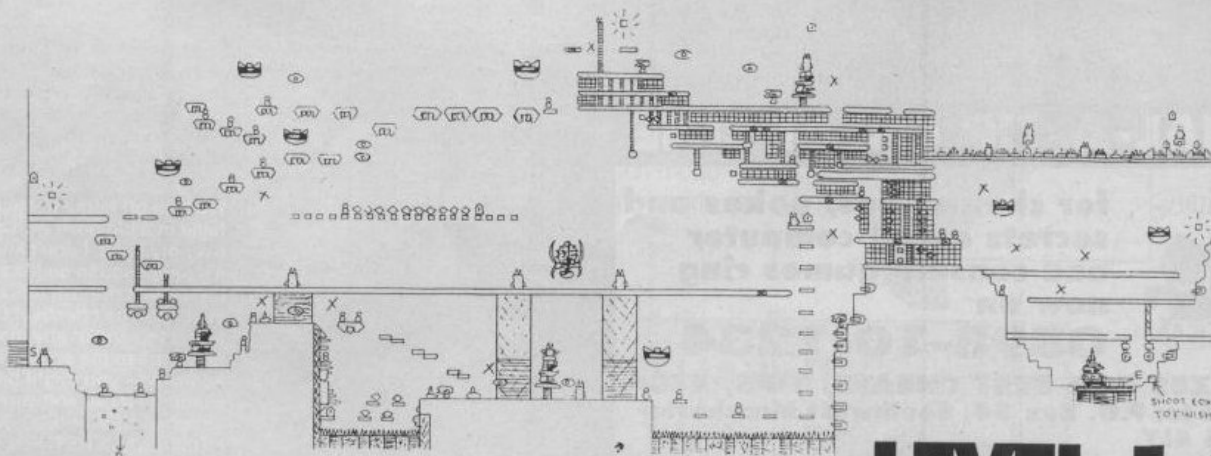

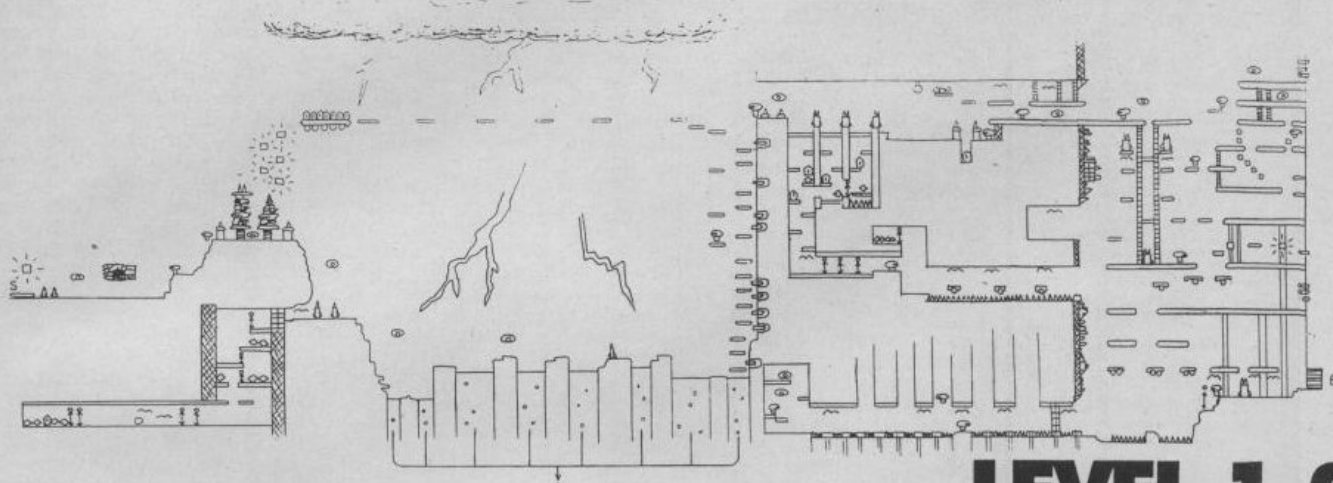

★ The lemmings are annoying but not too much of a problem as they don't mess with the Beast switches (to begin with) and you can jump over them easily enough anyway. Hoover them up or set Venus flytraps if you want, but otherwise don't waste your energy if other things need to be done. Larry Lawyer is a pain, though. At all costs avoid getting caught in a corner with Larry as he can keep hitting you and knocking you out and lose you the game.

★ Extra Time is the most important icon to collect if you've got at least one of everything else. If you see a tool or icon then collect it: you'll need as many as possible for the later levels. Particularly balloons and (to a lesser extent) umbrellas.

★ When constant paint flushing/mixing is required, the best place to stay (once all the switches are in their correct settings) is by the paint wheels, of course. Here you can stay until the end of the shift and tackle Larry Lawyer. Hoover up the lemmings and set Venus flytraps with little to worry about (other than the paint mixtures of course!). Watch for the head and body moulds falling down when they change to creating the new dolls.

Many thanks to Steven Downey of Worthing, West Sussex, for his excellent map of world one of Rainbow Arts' megablasters, Turrican.

★ The basic checklist of items you need to set for all the shifts is as follows (going from the bottom of the Beast upwards).

- 1 ★ Power Cycle Ride the bike until the bulbs flash faster.
- 2 ★ Head/Body Bonding Unit Conveyor Belt Switches Switch so that both belts move towards the middle, away from the far edge bins.
- 3 ★ Raw Material Conveyor Belts Switches Switch them so that the belts move away from the bin in the middle.
- 4 ★ Loose Bolt on Resin Mixer Do this up with the Spanner/Wrench first.
- 5 ★ Electrical Plug for Raw Material Feeder Kick this in next.
- 6 ★ Bunsen Burner Use the Match to light it and fine-tune it to a power rating three (middle setting).

And depending on the shift you're on, check the following.

- 7 ★ Furnace Use the match on the coal.
- 8 ★ Paints/Paint Mixtures These are vital! Set up the paint colour in the vat ready for the first doll as you make your way up to activate the Beast. Flush if need be but keep checking these.
- 9 ★ Quality Controller Very useful. Eliminates incorrectly matched and mismatch colour dolls but doesn't detect dolls of all one incorrect colour.
- 10 ★ The Paint Showers/Drying Fans Vital. Switch on all as soon as possible.
- 11 ★ Head/Body Frequency Settings Low frequency selected by a high bar setting for both.

DON'T FORGET TO RIDE THE POWER CYCLE NOW AND THEN TO KEEP ELECTRICITY FLOWING!

Dolls: 5 STORMTROOPERS
(Any Colour)

The first level sees very few problems as you don't need to worry about colours or anything. It might be worth juggling with the conveyor belts to make sure mismatched colour heads and bodies are eliminated but I'd leave it all alone once it gets going if I were you.

Shift Two

Password: CHERRY/BANANA/
BANANA/LEMON
Dolls: 5 ZAK McCRACKENS & 3
RAZORS (Any Colour)

Two different bodies, two different heads but again no problems. Again it's best to leave the Beast to do its own thing once you've got it going correctly. Any female/male combination head/bodies may look odd but it's more trouble than its worth to try and correct them.

Shift Three

Password: BANANA/CHERRY/
PINEAPPLE/PLUM
Dolls: 5 RED INDIANA JONESSES
Now here comes the Paint Selection Bit. Only one colour is needed so no problems there. Select red first, switch on everything and leave it to it. The Extra Time icon can appear quite often on this screen so go for it if you see it.

Shift Four

Password: PINEAPPLE/LEMON/
PINEAPPLE/PINEAPPLE
Dolls: 4 BLUE EDNAS & 4 RED
STORMTROOPERS

You'll need to flush the paint with white before changing to red. Do it just as the new body falls down to the Shower, ensuring the head before it gets through before the paint change. Mind you, I could live with one or two mis-coloured heads or bodies.

Shift Five

Password: PINEAPPLE/
PINEAPPLE/LEMON/CHERRY
Dolls: 4 BLUE BOBBINS & 2
YELLOW R2-D2S

Quality control comes in on this screen and at least you won't have too many deductions getting through from now on. Switch this on immediately and check on it to make sure it's Quality Controlling okay.

With regard to the paint it's easy enough to flush and change to blue paint quickly but flushing and running over to the yellow takes time (especially if the lemmings are around your feet). Kick/kill the lemmings before you change to yellow paint for these. No probs otherwise.

Shift Six

Password: CHERRY/PLUM/PLUM/
PINEAPPLE

Dolls: 2 RED LUKES, 2 BLUE DARTHS & 2 YELLOW OBI-WANS
Three dolls to worry about so you'll be kept on your toes flushing the paint and running between paint squeezer cogs. Fairly standard stuff still, but go all-out to pick up Extra Time, as often I've fallen short of quota by one doll on this level.

Shift Seven

Password: CHERRY/PINEAPPLE/
LEMON/BANANA
Dolls: 3 BLUE R2-D2S & 3
GREEN LUKES

Two problems come into operation here. Firstly the blue paint must have yellow added to it to make green for Luke, followed by a complete flush again to get the blue for R2-D2 afterwards. And secondly the Drying Fans and Paint Showers on each side need to be switched on. Miss any one of these and you can't finish the level. Switch everything on at the start and all you need to worry about is mixing in the yellow to make green at the right time. Simple-ish!

Shift Eight

Password: PINEAPPLE/BANANA/
PINEAPPLE/CHERRY
Dolls: 3 BLUE DARTHS, 3
GREEN BOBBINS & 3 YELLOW
OBI-WANS

Even with 3 types of doll there's still no great problems. Speed is the key to success for this level. Immediately upon sighting the Obi-Wans falling through towards the Shower and Fan combination, flush the paint and get over to the yellow sharpish (the frequency of heads and bodies is speeding up, if you didn't notice already).

Shift Nine

Password: PINEAPPLE/LEMON/
LEMON/CHERRY
Dolls: 4 RED DEVILS & 2
YELLOW C-3POS

A simple enough, small scale quota except you've now got the Frequency Springs for both the heads and bodies to worry about. Jump on the frequency springs until the bar is at the top for both the head and body (which keeps the frequency of head/body change low). If you change the frequency to high (with the head/body bars at the bottom setting) you'll get a fast change of each character and some clever setting of switches, conveyor belts and Jacob's ladders is needed if you're to get the heads and bodies connecting right. On top of this you'll have a lot of mis-coloured dolls going through (at least 50%). Basically, high frequency settings are not worth it! Keep the frequency low and the bars high!

Shift Ten

Password: LEMON/BANANA/
PLUM/PLUM
Dolls: 5 GREEN EDNAS & 3
RED LUKES

A repeat of the previous level except you'll need to stay with the paint to flush it after each doll change and also add blue to yellow to make green for the Eidolon Goblin dolls. Phew! Things are starting to get tough!

That's the first ten shifts done. If you have any hints, tips, maps or cheats on any more of the game then don't forget to send them in to me because the game is driving me crazy!

Well I'm off home to stick my head in a big bowl with a towel over my head. I don't know what it's supposed to do for a cold but I've seen it done in lots of films so it must be effective! Don't forget to send in any maps, tips or cheats to me at the usual address — you might be the winner of a £40 software voucher! 3D CONSTRUCTION KIT

Domark ■ £24.99

One of the great programming innovations over the past few years has been Freescape, a system of creating a three dimensional world where the player can have total control over movement. No longer were you only able to walk around objects, you could fly above them and look down, stand below and look up — the possibilities were endless.

Incentive produced four games using Freescape: Driller (97%, Issue 47), Dark Side (95%, Issue 54), Total Eclipse (93%, Issue 60) and Castle Master (85%, Issue 76). Now they've gone one step further — 3D Construction Kit.

Basically, this is a utility to create your own Freescape worlds. The original games were created by typing in lists of coordinates (a very tricky business) but now it's as easy as two key presses to put a 3D object on the screen. The kit uses pull-down menus and a pointer which are simple to use and understand.

You choose the shape you want from a list including hexagons, triangles, cubes, lines and pentagons and can then stretch, shrink, turn and shade it and position it in your world. Using this method complex buildings can be easily built up.

Creating buildings and doors to walk around is all very well but would make a very boring game. This is why a 'conditions' option has been included. By putting a condition on a certain object (IFSHOT THEN GOTO AREA 2, for example) you can start to make a game. In Total Eclipse, shooting blocks created stairs and in Castle Master a switch opened the drawbridge. Each part or room of the game is called an area. You can have as many areas as memory will allow.

As you can imagine, storing and calculating the movement of all the objects you put into a game can be very memory hungry and annoying when you think that many of the objects are simply repeated from area to area. Global objects can be used to save having to recreate a new situation each time. An example of this is four walls and a ceiling for a room. You can just use the global object for this as each room of your game.

Sensors can be used to make something react when the player comes near it — a monster firing at you for example. When creating remember that you're not restricted to building on the ground. You can choose whether you want your player to fly on a jet-pack, in a plane or just walk.

Once you've created the world for your game you can start to concentrate on the presentation. The size of the window your player uses to see into your world can be changed. The smaller you have it the faster things will scroll by.

A normal SCREEN$ file drawn with any art utility can be incorporated to use as a border and status panel. Text and score lines to represent energy, lives, etc are a must and there's even an option to use scrolling bars to give your game a more professional look.

Within a few minutes of loading 3D Construction Kit you will be creating worlds for pleasure or even monetary gain. The great thing about the system is that it creates stand-alone programs so you can load them without having to reload 3D Kit. Perfect for sending into CRASH Powertape!

This is an excellent game creation utility. Whether you want to create whole games for friends or models of your house to fly over, it's simple to use and great fun.

- Prepare to qualify! No other cars on the track here — just make a decent time to enter the Monaco Grand Prix

SUPER MONACO GP

- This is the race where all the action happens! Whack it up to seventh gear to cruise past your opponents

NICK Yet another racing game to thrill to. I'm getting a bit tired of them all now, one doesn't really improve over another. Continental Circus set the standard and it's all been a bit downhill (excuse the pun) since then. Super Monaco GP is a coin-op conversion and a good one but, because it does come from an arcade machine, the gameplay isn't particularly innovative. The usual shaded track graphics and semi-colourful backgrounds are here again and the car always looks like it's going around 5mph when it's really doing over a hundred! I just about managed to get all the way around the track once, but you have to be so careful as the slightest prang will bring up a 'fatal crash' sign and it's back to the beginning for you. And that's about it. Fine piece of coding, but unless you adored the coin-op, the action isn't gripping.

US Gold ■ £11.23

That's an odd price, isn't it viewers? £11.23? Eurgh! Y'see, Super Monaco was supposed to be £10.99 but then the Budget happened and stuck the VAT up, so it's ended up at that price. Phrrrt! Anyway, are you going to get your £11.23's worth? Let's have a look, shall we?

Super Monaco GP is taken from the Sega coin-op of the same name and it's a racing game, set in French Riviera, in one of the most important races of the year.

You start by choosing your transmission: Beginner has a completely automatic gearbox, Amateur has four gears and Professional has seven. As common sense dictates, it's best to start in Beginner mode (but what the hell, I thought, started in Pro mode and soon ended up buried in a stack of hay on the side of the track!).

The game starts in France where you have to complete a qualifying lap to determine your grid placing for the race itself; there are 19 computer-controlled drivers to compete against.

The starting lights flash red, then green and the game begins. Weather conditions can make all the difference. The car is easier to handle in the dry than the wet, so keep an eye on the forecast at the start. Also watch out for the checkpoints throughout the three laps that make up each race: at each one you need to achieve a certain position — fail to do so and it's Game Over.

You also have to complete each track in a dictated position to qualify for the next. In France, it's seventh place or higher, but as you go through Brazil, Spain and finally Monaco the limit closes to third or higher.

Finally, watch out for the obstacles at the side of the road — and other cars, of course. Your car's fairly robust but if you hit too many obstacles you're disqualified.

Racing games are getting like footy sims: if you've seen one you've seen a hundred. Super Monaco GP's advantage is that it's based on a hugely successful coin-op and if you're a fan of that, you'll be chuffed with the Speccy rendition — it's very playable.

The player's view is from the driver's seat rather than from the rear of the car, and the graphical detail is very impressive, especially on the driver's hands as he throws the steering wheel left and right, battling to keep the car on the track. Background graphics are very colourful, and there's even a bit of colour on the roadside objects to brighten things up. Control of the car is difficult to master, but practice makes perfect.

The thing that prevents Super Monaco GP being a real corker is it doesn't quite capture the sensation of speed but, overall, it's a very playable racing game that does US Gold proud.

NICK You would've thought everyone had got fed up of 3D arcade games like this; they were all the rage a few years back. I for one can't get enough of them, especially when they're as good as Wreckers. It's not as immediately playable as other 3D games, you need to have a good read of the instructions and understand what each room's function is before you can really get into it. Once you've got it sussed, I guarantee you'll be playing late into the night. There's such a variety of things to do — one minute you could be walking the corridors blasting alien slime, the next flying around in space zapping the dregs on the outside. Wreckers is an excellent game, a perfect combination of impressive graphics, alien blasting and strategy.

be everywhere at once so it's time to put a few droids into action. Selecting one of the droid panels (from the bottom of the screen) brings up a map of the ship and droid information. Droids can be ordered to any location of the ship and should they discover any invaders they'll attack.

While all this invasion stuff is going on, keeping the Beacon functioning only adds to the panic. Four blub rooms must be kept operational, so the Beacon can continue broadcasting. The main computer gives the alert if one of the blub rooms is malfunctioning and when it does you've gotta run! To stabilise the blub, a waveform must be adjusted so it matches its partner.

The Plasmodians attack in waves and once one wave has been cleared you'll be promoted — just in time to cope with another wave!

Wreckers' gameplay is all about discovery. Which droids to use and how to use them, the best attack campaign to wage, and of course, learning all the uses for each computer and room. The depth of gameplay is immense. Just as you reckon you've cracked it, something else pops up to give you trouble. I reckon it's the level of interaction with the semi-intelligent droids that puts this above many other arcade adventures — sending them off, getting one to fix another... it really is good fun basking in command.

Like I said, Wreckers is skill and so it should be — it's been in development for two years! It's by Denton Designs, who also created Ocean's Great Escape and Where Time Stood Still — two utterly fab games. Imagine those only ten times better and you have a vague idea how skill Wreckers is (ie, it's very skill!).

Wreckers

This game is skill. Remember that because it's going to sound really complicated. Skill, skill, skill. Right, let's get on with it.

Essential plot elements: You're one of three keepers on an outpost space station called Beacon 04523N. The Beacon's purpose is to send navigation transmissions to passing ships so they keep on the right track and don't fall into any dirty great black holes. No matter what, you must keep the Beacon functioning. Assisting you are three droids who can clean, fix, explore and defend. If three aren't enough, more can be constructed.

Should the Beacon be invaded, a self-destruct mechanism is initiated, which has a one-hour countdown and can't be switched off until the Beacon's invader-free. Today, the communications computer informed you that organic life forms have been spotted approaching Beacon

Wreckers is an isometric 3D arcade adventure with lots of strategy and blasting. There's heaps to do and the Beacon is pretty big, consisting of around 35 rooms and corridors. The graphically detailed scenery scrolls around at a speedy pace.

Your first job is to select one of the three keepers to control; each are blessed with their own characteristics but effectively operate as your three lives. As your chosen keeper comes out of suspended animation, there's a couple of minutes before the computer alerts you to oncoming aliens. So you've got a bit a time to do a few jobs. Building up your army of droids is a good thing to do; they're constructed in the Factory location. Where's that? Well, call up the map of the ship and you can see exactly where it is.

One brilliant thing about Wreckers is that you don't spend most of your time trudging around corridors. The Beacon's equipped with vertical and horizontal zipways, which are like elevators only a bit quicker and speed you between locations in a 'zip!'

The invaders are Plasmodians — small, gooey lumps of alien slime — but are better known as Wreckers, because they destroy anything they come in contact with. There are several ways to combat the Plassies. As they're approaching the beacon, you can enter one of four battlepods. This puts you at the controls of a massive Hoover-like contraption: as the Plassies come close, simply suck 'em up!

The next attack procedure is to blast them as they attempt to get through the Beacon's shell. Leaving via an airlock, you're fitted with a spacesuit and jet-pack, giving you the freedom to zoom about space and blast Plasmodians.

Back inside, the Plasmodians pose a real threat as they spit large gobs of killer slime at you; however, a quick taste of laser death puts paid to them.

If your character's energy is drained by Plasmodian attack return him to suspended animation or he'll end up as a human Plasmodian, looking like a walking jelly, and completely deadly. When one keeper has died you can simply select another and carry on.

Checking the map shows which areas of the Beacon are under attack. You can't

SLIGHTLY MAGIC

Code Masters
■ £2.99 ■

Playing with spells can be tragic when you're only Slightly Magic. Help guide Slightly through this multi-screen cartoon adventure in his quest to rescue the fair princess from Sunburnt the dragon. Because our hero is not a fully fledged wizard, he needs your help in casting spells. These are dotted around the play area and the spells each need another object to make them work.

Code Masters are the experts at this style of game. Slightly Magic is very similar in idea and appearance to the Dizzy adventures, but what's wrong with that? Whereas the Dizzy games have many tough puzzles, this is much easier and should appeal to a younger audience (Erm, or those young at heart; I loved it! —Ed).

All the screens are packed with colour and plenty of animation and a jolly ditty plays throughout the game on 128K. The 48K version is a little less detailed but the game doesn't lose its charm. The movement of Slightly himself is a little sloppy. He can jump through many of the obstacles and being white there's colour clash whenever he goes near anything.

Slightly Magic is another great cartoon adventure from

- Snort's thirsty and you can be sure his bucket of slop is in some far, out-of-reach place!

PANIC DIZZY

- There's Dizzy in the middle, through him you control the scrolling belt at the bottom

- When the pipes are getting dangerously low there's little chance of getting any shape into the correct hole

Code Masters
■ £2.99 ■

Poor old Dizzy, he doesn't get much rest these days, does he? Especially now he's taken on a job at the toy factory, just around the corner from Magicland! The little egg has got to work pretty hard if he's to get the toys off on time.

Most factory jobs can get very boring but Dizzy won't be nodding off just yet. Using a little lever he has to control a conveyor belt with holes in it. Different shapes fall from the four pipes at the top of the screen and Diz has to guide them into the corresponding holes.

Sounds easy doesn't it? Well, it's not. The pipes gradually move down the screen and the shapes start falling faster and faster until you end up in a right PANIC! You can make the pipes move back up by being clever with your lever (that doesn't rhyme —Ed) and pocketing three shapes at once; if you're ultra skill you might get four shapes in at once and be rewarded with a toy! Panic Dizzy has 20 levels of manic action for you to enjoy and any of them can be selected from the menu screen. Don't be tempted to jump in at the deep end and start at level 20, though, lots of practice is the only way to survive past the first three!

Panic Dizzy is another great Dizzy arcade game following in the footsteps of Kwik Snax and Fast Food; and it's great to see a really addictive puzzle game available for such a bargain-price!

SCOOBY AND SCRAPPY DOO

Hi-Tec ■ £2.99 ■

Puh-puh-puppy power is the order of the day in this Hi-Tec game where you play the part of Scrappy Doo, searching for Uncle Scooby. As usual, Scooby's rumbling stomach has got him into trouble, so it's Scrappy Doo to the rescue through the four levels that make up the game.

You start in the Ghost Town and leap and jump your way across many platforms and battle through the many traps that litter your path. Plenty of nasty creatures stand between you and success, but you can hit your attackers; the longer the fire button is held down, the stronger the punch. Along the way there are bonus objects to collect, including invincibility, bonus points and extra lives.

There's plenty of fun to be had with Scooby and Scrappy. The character sprites, despite being monochrome, are really well drawn — Scrappy really does look as if he means business. The game is fairly tough to get into, but a bit of practice soon puts you on the right track. Addictive, entertaining with hassle-free gameplay, notch up another successful cartoon licence to Hi-Tec and a very playable game for you. Hurrah!

SKULL AND CROSSBONES

Tengen/Domark ■
£9.99 ■ £14.99

Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum, me hearties! Once pirates were the scourge of the Spanish Maine so it was only a matter of time before their adventures popped up in a hacking-away coin-op, which now makes its appearance on the Speccy. We're talking serious swashbuckling here as you, with or without the aid of a pal, become either One Eye or Red Dog and search through eight levels for treasure, stolen by an evil sorcerer. Armed with trusty (and probably rusty) cutlasses, they fight the continuous stream of attacking pirates to regain their booty. Hah har!

The action is spread over eight levels, set aboard galleons, in Spanish castles, in caves and all sorts of locations where Errol Flynn would feel at home. The brightly coloured backdrops scroll from one combat location to another and once you're there you fight until all your attackers are disposed of. Along the way are lots of bonus items to collect, chests full of treasure, golden goblets, pieces of eight and 'X' marks the spot' where buried treasure lies.

The more treasure collected, the stronger you become. And strength is needed because the opposition put up a stiff fight. A swift poke with your sword usually sends your attackers to the great pirate banquet in the sky — that is as long as they don't retaliate and knock a few points off your energy bar.

Food and drink is scattered around and consuming these pushes your energy meter up to an acceptable level, keeping your three lives intact for a while.

At the end of each level, one of the evil sorcerer's huge henchmen tries to hack you to bits, and having overcome him you still have to fight your treacherous crew for it! The sorcerer himself awaits your presence for a final battle at the end of level eight.

Eye strain is the first concern for anyone playing Skull and Crossbones: the small monochrome sprites are almost lost in the garishly coloured backdrops.

Right, the gameplay: what we're looking at here is really a standard beat-'em-up, much in the style of Golden Axe but with a pirate theme. It can be a case of 'seen it all before' if you're a beat-'em-up addict. All you have to do is walk along, wave your sword at the enemy forces and grab the loot. There isn't a great variety of combat moves; our pirate pals can only swipe with their swords.

Skull and Crossbones is a much better than Tengen's last game, Stun Runner, and although I've not seen the arcade game that Skull and Crossbones is taken from, it's a pretty entertainment romp!

NICK Skull and Crossbones follows in the footsteps of the Renegade games. You go around the landscape swashing and bucking your enemies until they blow up and leave 10p pieces behind (strange!). The funny thing about it is you only have to battle it out against one enemy at a time and the main character only ever seems to face one direction. If you want to go right, for example, but you're facing left, you moonwalk along the screen! Leaving each section of the game is quite peculiar: you jump on a cross and your character flies over to the next stage (not a very piratey thing to do, is it?). Skull and Crossbones's theme spices up the old beat-'em-up style but doesn't hold many surprises.

JAHANGIR KHAN'S WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP SQUASH

Krisalis ■ £9.99 ■
£14.99 ■ 128K only

Anyone who's played squash knows that it's one of the most dangerous sports in the world. The small, very hard ball hits the racquet (and invariably you) with the speed of a ricocheting bullet. But now you can participate in a one- or two-player game in the comfort of your own armchair with Jahangir Khan's World Championship Squash.

The game begins with a series of menu screens. Choices available include ball colour (blue, yellow or red for different standards of play), saving and loading games, practising and competing in either League or World Championship games.

The rules of the game are quite simple: the court is rectangular and divided into two halves, one for each player. There's a square shaped service box at the front of each half, from which the serving player whacks the ball against the opposite wall. This is marked about halfway up with a line called the Cut; to serve a successful shot the ball must hit the wall above the Cut and fall squarely in the opponent's half of the court. (Confused? I am.) The opponent, on the other hand, can let the ball hit any of the walls (and risk decapitation), but it can only hit the floor once.

Points are scored if your opponent fails to hit the speeding projectile. If the ball doesn't fall in your opponent's part of the court, they score (simple, eh?).

The game makes allowances for beginners with an option that gives normal or easy control — in normal, your joystick movements as you hit the ball determine its direction, whereas in easy all you do is hit fire, and the Speccy decides in what direction and with how much power the ball is returned.

NICK Squash has never been a popular game for computer conversion, unlike tennis or football. So it's a novelty when a game like this comes along. The characters that represent each player are small but the game is detailed, with crowd scenes and excellent presentation, including some impressive full colour screens. Timing your swipes so that you actually hit the ball takes some practice but after a little while you can soon be banging away and beating the pants off your opponent. Jahangir Khan World Championship Squash makes a refreshing change from going down the courts and sweating buckets in a real game.

CHAMPIONSHIP RUN

Impulze ■ £10.99
■ £15.99

Zooming around the world's most famous race tracks with some of the top drivers of Formula One is a daydream of many people. Now you can go one step further by taking a spin in Championship Run.

You start at the back of the pack and have to improve your position to progress in the Driver's Championship. The bends, hills, pits and hairpins of the top tracks have all been reproduced for you to get to grips with.

Your Formula One car is equipped with three gears and a display at the top of the screen provides all the information you could desire: your position, lap times, distance remaining to travel and qualifying rank.

I wouldn't describe the graphics in Championship Run as 'stunning', as the inlay does. I think 'can be a bit messy' is a much better way to put it. I must admit that the tracks and cars shoot by at a hell of a speed but there's minimal detail. Objects at the side of the road are expanded out of recognition as you approach them and going over hills is deadly; you have no idea what's coming up ahead.

MARK Championship Run is much like Continental Circus. The cars look the same, the track looks the same and your car even catches fire if you're hit too often. Only it's not quite as good as Circus. The car sprites are reasonably well drawn, but the tracks and background 'details' are simplistic. There are two things that annoy me immensely about this game. First is the difficulty in changing gears: many times after a smash up I found it very hard to change down from third to first. Secondly, the computer controlled cars are real pain to pass — you become more and more frustrated by them. As racing games go this is a bit of a non-starter, which is a shame because Impulze's last release, Edd The Duck, was so good.

What I always find extremely annoying about almost every race game on the Spectrum is that your opponents can drive 'through' you from behind. They race on as if nothing had happened and you're left picking up the pieces (sob!).

Championship Run doesn't offer anything new to the world of Speccy racing: no exciting features and the same tracks to race around as countless other driving games. Entertaining enough but it doesn't have the guts to make pole position.

Predator 2

Imageworks ■
£10.99 ■ £14.99

He's back! The alien who would scare the willies out of anyone with a bit of sense has returned for a spot of man munching. Of course, it isn't the same Predator that big Arnie mashed in the original movie, but he/she/it is just as dangerous and twice as ugly. The year is 1997 and the place is downtown Los Angeles. The city is in the grip of a heatwave and a massive drugs gang war is in full swing between the Jamaicans and Columbians (known as El Scorpios), and all this commotion is the attraction for the Predator. In the middle of these shenanigans is Lieutenant Mike Harrigan, a tough LA cop who's been thrown in at the deep end, and that, fun seekers, is you.

The game is split into four manic action levels where you have to battle your way through all the mobsters to face the walking nightmare one-on-one in the slaughterhouse. Predator 2 starts with two cops being pinned down by heavy gunfire after stopping a van full of gunmen. Harrigan rushes to the rescue with his trusty .44 Smith & Wesson, and not surprisingly comes under fire himself.

The game is viewed Operation Wolf-style from behind a transparent Harrigan, and as the screen slowly scrolls along gunmen appear from the sides of the screen and let loose their ammo. Retaliate by moving the cursor across the screen and pressing that fire button when you're on target. A status panel, at the bottom of the screen, shows your police badge (energy), ammo, score and gun currently in use.

A handgun is your first weapon but there are other weapons to collect: grenades, a rocket launcher, assault shotguns and rifles. Ammunition for the handgun is unlimited, but other guns need topping up regularly. The first level ends when you fight your way through to a drug lord's HQ and arrest him for questioning.

Level two takes place inside the penthouse apartment of one of the biggest drug lords in LA. The Columbians and Jamaicans are still battling it out but the Predator has gatecrashed the party. Your job here is to get to Ramon Vega, a drug lord, before the alien horror does.

Level three moves down to the Los Angeles subway where the FBI are also chasing the Predator; it's killed two of your men and you want revenge. And you finally get it in level four when you save said FBI team from the Predator and have to face it alone in the slaughterhouse (brown trousers, ahoy!). Good luck, you're going to need it, sunshine.

Whilst I agree in principle with Nick's views on computer/film tie-ins, I personally found Predator 2 very playable. It took me a good many games to get off the first level, mainly because the opponents are so vicious. Unless you can find a fast and powerful gun you're likely to find yourself up the creek without a paddle. I also like having to scabble around after ammo; as with Operation Wolf this adds a lot of angst to the proceedings.

The graphics are monochrome and while the occasional baddie is hidden in the mass of action, the sprites are very well defined, especially the Predator in level three, who rips the head off the odd gunman as he passes by (Blurgh! —Ed). Okay, this may be mindless fire button-mangling violence, but I love it (and I bet you will, too!).

POPEYE 2

● Wake up, you spinach-eating barmpot!

Alternative Software ■ £2.99 ■

Olive Oyl has been captured once again by the evil Bluto, being the lovely young lady she is ('hem, 'hem). And you, as Popeye, have to rescue her.

All the popular characters from the Popeye cartoon are here: Sweet Pea, Wimpy, Eugene the Jeep and Goons. It's these characters that cause most of the problems — you have to watch out for Sweet Pea crawling along the iron girders, collect all the hamburgers for Wimpy and defuse the bombs you find on your travels. Spinach cans make the muscle-o-meter at the bottom of the screen expand, giving you extra power.

All the sprites and backgrounds are detailed but in glorious monochrome, unfortunately, which makes the game look bland. The gameplay is very simplistic. All you do is jump from platform to platform collecting things until you reach a nasty, then punch at him until he drops.

For a game that's aimed towards younger games players I think it's a little tough: I could just about manage to get halfway into the second level before running out of lives, and that was hard going (that's probably because you're rubbish, Nick —Ed).

NICK

OVERALL 60%

NICK We all know the score when it comes to film tie-ins, don't we viewers? It doesn't matter what the game is like, it will sell on the success of the film. Which goes some way to explaining why Predator 2 ranks pretty low in the playability stakes. All you have to do is shoot the baddies that pop up as the backgrounds scroll by, Operation Wolf style. From level to level, all that changes is the background — gameplay stays exactly the same. Visually the game is bland. Monochrome graphics have been used, making some of the enemies camouflaged, and the sprites aren't impressive. This, coupled with the continuous drone of gunfire, didn't encourage me to play for very long. In my opinion, Predator 2 is another example of 'big name, no game' syndrome. If you're a fan of mindless shoot-'em-ups you may find this a worthwhile buy.

TOYOTA
RALLY SPECIAL

- ★ WIN A RADIO CONTROLLED TOYOTA CELICA RALLY CAR!

● Grab your helmet, gloves and Thermos flask and set off on the ride of your life — driving a Toyota rally car! Toyota Celica GT Rally (to give it its full name) from Gremlin is one of the most realistic rallying simulations on the Spectrum and was given a stonking 84% last issue. Each stage of the rally is packed full of hills, bends, rocks and other treacherous obstacles. Only the most experienced (or jammy) drivers will make it through to the end in one piece. Now you can join in the fun by entering this competition! Yippee!

You can take to the roads in style (or your back garden) if you win first prize because we've got a great remote-controlled car up for grabs! It's a Toyota Celica GT B Rally Special, finished in cool white with red trim. The kit comes complete with the radio control unit and in total has a value of around £200! Crikey! It's just the sort of thing you need for scaring the life out of next door's cat!

SIGN OF THE TIMES

All we want you to do is come up with a totally original road sign. None of the normal boring stuff like '30 mph' or 'Road narrowing ahead', we want something to confuse Corky when he's playing the game. For example, you could have 'Danger: Hedgehogs stilt-walking', 'Black hole in the road!' or 'Editor eating jelly up ahead!'. The best and most original entry will receive the remote-controlled Toyota car.

The next ten best will each get a copy of Gremlin's other brilliant driving game, the CRASH Smashed Lotus Turbo Esprit Challenge!

Send your beautifully drawn entry to our panel of expert driving instructors at: NEWSFIELD, RAUNCHY RALLYING COMPO, CRASH, LUDLOW, SHROPSHIRE SY8 1JW. To reach us before May 23, or we'll have to invent a 'Useless reader who didn't get his compo entry to us in time hacked to small pieces on the road' road sign! Ta-rah, chuckls!
